FIFTY-SIXTH YEAR NO. 50

CEDARVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY NOVEMBER 17, 1933

PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR

NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENTS

COLUMBUS.—The election machinery of the State of Ohio clicked in perfect rhythm Tuesday night, Nov. 7. Due to the good work of the 88 county boards of elections and the co-operation of the almost 60,000 precinct officials, telephone reports came hurrying in from all parts of the state carrying results of the election. Secretary of State George S. Myers was thus enabled to make a record in giving to the people of the United States on election night the vote cast on the repeal of the 18th amendment. The network of radio broadcasting stations throughout the country were enabled to announce returns in excess of 5,000 Ohio precincts as compared to a few hundred precincts from other states and the final unofficial result was reported in less than 24 hours after closing of the polls.

All state-wide proposals before Ohio voters Nov. 7 carried by large and in some instances unprecedented majorities. The largest vote was for ratification of the 18th amendment, unofficially reported at 1,433,157, with 579,947 against. The next largest was 1,385,994 for old age pensions with 525,756 against.

Repeal of the state prohibition amendment was likewise reported as carried by a vote of 1,245,186 to 573,741 against; ten-mill tax limitation, 974,494 for and 658,899 against; and Savings Co. against A. C. Haw-county home rule, 847,000 for and 737,886 against.

The figures here given were telephoned to the Secretary of State's office by the county boards of election.

Federal prohibition repeal was voted by election of 52 delegates who will meet in the House of Representatives Hall at 1 o'clock Dec. 5 and ratify the amendment to the federal constitution to repeal the 18th amendment. The delegates include such prominent individuals as United States Senator Robert J. Buckley and former United States Senator Alton Pomeroy. The convention will also choose its own president, secretary and other officers. As soon as the convention adopts a ratification resolution the president and secretary will certify the action to the Secretary of State, who will at once transmit this certificate to the Secretary of State of the United States. This action may be of unusual importance because it may place Ohio in the position of being the 36th state to ratify repeal.

Repeal of prohibition will not become operative in Ohio, however, until the general assembly has nullified the Crabbie and Miller laws. This is expected to occur at a special session of the legislature to be called soon after the state repeal convention is held. At that time liquor control acts will be enacted, and sale of intoxicants will then become legal in Ohio.

The old age pension act goes into effect at once, but will not be operative until the machinery provided by the law has been set up and the legislature provides revenue to meet its requirements. Only such persons as are subject to the provisions of the act who are 65 years old or more, citizens of the United States, have resided in Ohio 15 years and in the county one year. No person can receive benefits under the law who has an annual income of $300 or more and who has relatives or others who can be made under the state law to contribute to the person's support. The pension shall not exceed $25 per month.

The County Home Rule amendment is also effective at once in principle. It serves to give each county the same right to set up its form of government by charter provisions as municipalities have had since 1912. Municipalities and townships may transfer their powers to a county with the latter's consent, or a county may be made a consolidated municipality with the consent of the taxing units affected. Provision is made for the creation of a county charter commission and the election of 15 members to the commission at the for $702.02 against William and Marie Barnum. Sheriff John Baughn was named receiver by the court.

Sterrett Enters Cleveland Bank

Word has been received here that W. Dwight Sterrett has resigned as teacher in Shaw High School, East Cleveland, and has accepted a position in The Society for Savings, Cleveland.

Mr. Sterrett has been teaching Physics and Chemistry in Shaw High School since 1921 and previous to that time was a teacher in the high schools of Mansfield and Greenville, Ohio, and Wilmington, Ill.

He is going into a bank which has made an enviable record during these last few years of financial disturbance. It is one of four Cleveland banks which opened immediately after the banking holiday last March. The Society for Savings is one of the largest mutual savings banks of the country, having over $103,000,000 deposits. It is strictly a savings bank, doing no commercial banking whatever. An expansive program for the bank is under way which will, under normal business conditions, make it one of the most important banks in Cleveland.

D. A. R. ENTERTAINED AT ALLEN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Allen opened their home to the members' husbands and friends of Cedar Cliff Chapter, D. A. R., for their annual banquet, Tuesday evening. The guests were seated at small tables where a bountiful two course dinner was served. Following the dinner hour a program in which the Regent, Mrs. W. W. Galloway introduced Prof. Reed of the High School, who gave two vocal numbers, "Serenade" Schubert, "Still As the Night" Brahms.

Following the music numbers were listened to Dr. McChesney's pleasant message, who introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. Paul Bloomhardt of Wittenberg College, Springfield, who announced his subject: "Kings, Queens and Jacks." English history provided much of the background for the rhymes in our children's story books. It was in the reign of the notorious Henry VIII that "Little Jack Horner," "The House That Jack Built," "Sing A Song of Six Pence," had their beginning, while Catherine of Aragon was the "Queen in the Parlor" and Anne Boleyn was the "Maid in the Garden." Cardinal Wolsey came in for his share of ridicule in "Jack and Jill," "Little Bo Peep," "Tommy Tucker" and "Mother Hubbard." Phillip II of Spain that much disliked husband of Bloody Mary, bore the brunt of "Rain, Rain Go To Spain," while Queen Elizabeth's love of finery brought forth "Ride A Cock Horse" and the "Cat and the Fiddle." Charles II and his blonde curls, are reputed to be the basis of "Curly Locks, Curly Locks," and James II is responsible for "Lady Bug, Lady Bug Fly Away Home."

Mr. Reed concluded the program with two vocal numbers, "Lullaby" and "Lullaby"—Brothers. Mrs. Reed accompanied her husband on the piano with his vocal numbers. Those assisting Mrs. Allen in her hostess duties, Mrs. Fred Townsley, Mrs. C. H. Ervin, Mrs. J. S. West, Mrs. Frank Turnbull, Mrs. Frank Creswell and Mrs. I. C. Davis.

To Seek $8,000,000 For Flood Project

The federal government will be asked to grant approximately $8,000,000 for a project to lease the some times turbulent Little Miami river. This was announced today by John Van Horn, Franklin, O., engineer, as he disclosed plans calling for the construction of four dams in the flood control project.

The dams would back the flood waters into waste land areas and protect river towns in Warren, Greene, Clermont, Clinton and Hamilton cos. The plans provide for dams on the Little Miami at Tod's Fork, above Morrow; at Caesar's creek, near Harveysburg, and at Washington Mills, above Milford, and on the East Fork, between Batavia and Williamsburg.

Government engineers may lower the $8,000,000 figure after they study the plans, it was pointed out. Former Gov. Myers V. Cooper of Cincinnati, Judge Hugh Nichols, Batavia, and Howard Ivins, Lebanon, have been appointed directors of the Little Miami conservancy district.

The new Cedarville College paper edited and published by the students of Cedarville College has received its name. A number of names were placed in a box. Out of these various names, that of Dorothy Lunsford was accepted and the paper will go under the name of Whispering Cedars. The second edition came out this week. Four issues of this paper are sold for five cents.

One of the noted visitors to the college office this past week was the Honorable W. P. Van Ness, Republican member of the House of Representatives of Ohio. He resides at Mechanicsburg and represents Champlain County. He is a farmer, attorney at law and a banker.

Dean C. W. Steele conducted a very interesting chapel service Monday morning. His talk to the student body and faculty was on the "Abundant Life." He drew a very interesting and instructive lesson by contrasting the opportunities of a central African native with those of an American English citizen. He pointed out how this African, who was practically an animal when he came to England, gradually and persistently took advantage of his opportunities and is now a noted lecturer and business man in America.

The following resolutions were passed:

1. We recommend the enactment of a warehousing law similar that of the states of Illinois and Iowa so that farmers may secure crop loans on grains in properly sealed storage on the farm.
2. We demand that if codes are to be established for the several industries guaranteeing to workmen a proper standard of living; that the same principles in a code be established for those engaged in the agricultural industry.
3. In view of the ten mill tax limitation on real estate we renew our support for an income tax based on low rates and a low rate of exemption and that public education be supported by revenue derived therefrom on a state-wide basis.
4. We remain unalterably opposed to the establishment in the state of Ohio of the old time saloon as a social institution by whatever name it may be called.
5. Whereas public education is a state function; we believe that the state as a whole should be responsible for the education of those eligible to attend such public institutions rather than the individuals who happen to own real estate in the district of the residence of the children.
6. We express our appreciation for the many definite and complimentary expressions made by the Secretary of Agriculture concerning the services rendered by the extension service in the several counties of the nation and urge that he use his influence for the continuation of federal funds to an amount equal to those now available for the continuation of this service.
7. We favor discontinuance of assessments for the teachers' retirement fund unless such fund is reduced to $40,000,000.
8. We endorse state and national Farm Bureau legislative activities.
9. We endorse the general principles of the NRA and AAA. But insist that in any codes adopted thereunder, having to do with fixing of prices of agricultural products to the consumer, the farmers' cost of production and profit be given equal weight with the costs and profits of those distributing the product.
10. We wish to extend our sympathy to families of members deceased during the year, namely: C. E. Bone, O. M. Spahr, J. H. Lackey, Herman Davis and L. H. Hartsock.
11. Be it further resolved that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the association and that copies be forwarded to the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, and also to our various state and federal officials as they may be interested.

FIGHTING FOR EXISTENCE

For three months we have been waiting silently if not patiently, hoping that officials of the federal government in charge of the NRA would show some signs of intelligence, some desire to help business. As the days have gone by we have lost patience and now feel that it is time to speak and speak plainly.

There is no sign of improvement and we can see no hope of improvement as long as the owners of small businesses are harassed and persecuted, required to fight for the privilege to continue in business.

Representatives of the small town newspapers have been in Washington for three months but they have been unable to get a code approved by the government. One ground of contention has been that the newspapers insist that a clause be included in their code guaranteeing "the freedom of the press." The government will not accept a code with this provision in it. We believe that any newspaper man who will sign any code without such a provision in it is not a good citizen.

The owners of country newspapers in the United States have spent many thousands of dollars trying to draft a code the government will approve. The country newspaper business is like every other line of business, many in it are struggling to exist, most of them have lost money for several years. The money they have spent on codes they needed for pay rolls, to pay bills, to buy food and clothing, but they knew their businesses would have to close if the restrictions asked by the federal government were placed in force and they have made their contributions.

What has happened in the newspaper business we think, has happened with all small concerns. What ostensibly was for the purpose of helping business has injured and if a change does not come soon will absolutely cause many small plants to close. The owners of country newspapers are fighting to keep the government from putting them out of business. If that is the principle of the "New Deal," the purpose of the NRA, then we are opposed to it and will oppose it with all of the energy we have.

It is time for decisive action. So far as we can learn the only place, which has benefited from the NRA is Washington, where the hotels have been crowded for months with men trying to protect their business from the government, spending time which should have been devoted to their businesses, spending money which was needed for pay rolls, merchandise and equipment. Men fighting to keep the government from destroying their businesses. And this in the United States.

—Hillsboro (O.) News-Herald.

To elaborate on the newspaper code situation with which we have been somewhat familiar, having sit in on many hearings in the early formation of the code before it was presented to Washington authorities, it might be stated that the only code really before the NRA department is that of the National Editorial Association. The code presented by the daily press through the American Newspaper Publisher's Association has made no headway for various reasons, some of which daily publishers are responsible. This organization has stressed the freedom of the press to cover other objectionable reasons, yet as the News-Herald states we do not believe any publisher will sign a code that does provide openly for this section. If members of the A. N. P. had cooperated with the N. E. A., which comprises most of the small daily and weekly publishers, greater progress would have been made in getting a satisfactory code. In contrast periodical publishers of the Saturday Evening Post, and others, have and are still cooperating with the N. E. A.

The trouble has been that the NRA has not been able to differentiate between the press as distributors of news and opinions from that of an industrial institution turning out steel rails, boots or shoes. Without the clause of freedom of the press no one can guarantee what Gen. Johnson would do today or even tomorrow, for we doubt if he knows himself, judging from the ebullient statements he has issued at times concerning the Ford Motor Co.

Claims have been made frequently that the NRA was to give protection to small industries and small business but thus far the working of the plan has been the reverse because unjust and burdensome expense has been levied on all small business.

A famous writer this week carries a copyrighted article in numerous daily papers touching on the NRA and the newspaper code. It is his view that powerful and rich newspapers are not threatened but the weaker and progressive papers will be driven to the wall and to this we might add that most daily papers have used the NRA to bolster their advertising lineage, appealing for public support to force increased cost of operation on all lines of business and industry.

Many newspaper plants have job shops in connection and here we find the hand of the United Typothetae of America urging the NRA to levy labor costs on plants in rural communities that would force the sale of printed products to a point where buyers of printing would leave the market or adopt substitutes that would close most of the twelve thousand plants in the country. This would only add to the unemployment situation which supporters of the NRA are trying to solve.

The syndicate writer suggests that newspapers withdraw their application for a code and withdraw the Blue Eagle from their pages as it implies the boycott, which is morally odious and legally without warrant. If the government will take but one step to show good faith in using the NRA to protect small business, rather than permit big business to dominate the formation of codes and have the power of enforcement in its hands there might be a better feeling and understanding of what the NRA was supposed to do towards restoring better business conditions.

The newspapers have never threatened or even suggested a boycott against the Blue Eagle but have tried to cooperate towards success. If it is to be life or death for existence we are sure the Blue Eagle will be hauled down and the NRA activities taken from the front pages of the newspapers in this country.

A dollar in a liquidated bank may be worth forty or fifty cents to depositors but its 100 cents to a lawyer who will not stand for deflation.

PAUL IN ATHENS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 17:16-34.
 GOLDEN TEXT—For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring. Acts 17:28.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Worshipping God.
 JUNIOR TOPIC—Preaching in a Famous City.
 INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Do We Worship?
 YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Seeking and Finding God.

I. Athens Full of Idols (v. 16). Athens was the intellectual metropolis of the world at that time, the home of the world's greatest eloquence and philosophy. In spite of this fact the city was given wholly to idolatry, which so stirred Paul's spirit that he was there moved to preach the gospel.

II. The Parties Concerned in the Controversy (vv. 17-21).
 1. The Jews (v. 17). True to his usual custom, Paul went into the synagogue and entered into earnest argument with the Jews.

2. The devout persons (v. 17). This doubtless included proselytes to the Jewish faith.
 3. The philosophers (v. 18). From the Jews and devout persons he turned to such as were found in the market place. Here he came into touch with Epicurean and Stoic philosophers.

When these philosophers heard his preaching they desired to know what new doctrine he preached, so they invited him to the Areopagus where he might speak to them. They inquired as to what this "babbling" might mean. The word "babbling" means literally "speech-picking." They conceived Paul as a globe-trotter, who had gathered up seeds of truth or error here and there over the world and that he was somewhat like themselves, interested in talking about that which he had seen and heard.

III. Paul's Address on Mars' Hill (vv. 22-31).
 1. The introduction (vv. 22, 23). He introduced his discourse in a courteous manner, stating that he perceived that they were very religious. He did not accuse them of superstition as the A. V. would make it, but as the A. R. V., "very religious." He declared that he was viewing their city as he beheld "an altar with an inscription, 'To the unknown God.'"

He proceeded at once to connect it with the idea of the true God, implying that this altar had been erected to him.

2. The body of his discourse (vv. 24-31).
 a. A declaration concerning God (vv. 24, 25).
 (1) The true God created the material universe (v. 24). This was a direct blow at the philosophy of both the Epicureans and the Stoics.

(2) God's spirituality and immensity (vv. 24, 25). Being essentially spiritual he demands heart-service, and being transcendent above all he is not confined to earthly temples.
 (3) His active providence (v. 25). He gives existence to all things. He bestows needed gifts upon all creatures, and as sovereign directs all things.

b. His declarations concerning man (vv. 26-31).
 (1) His common origin (v. 26). This was a blow at the foolish Athenian pride which supposed that they were superior to all other people. This proposition he proved from their own literature (v. 26). He argued that if men are the offspring of God and bear his likeness, it is utterly foolish to make images such as the idols were.

(2) Nations have their place by the sovereign purpose of God (v. 26). He argued that the position and mission of each nation be of God's appointment.
 (3) Men should seek God (v. 27). His goodness and grace in supplying all human needs, and His sovereign ordering of the affairs of nations should move men to see and seek God.
 (4) Pressing obligations to repent (vv. 30, 31). This was his supreme message. Though God had formerly passed over the idolatrous practice of the nations, he now calls all men to repent in preparation for the coming day of judgment, the guarantee of which is the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead.

IV. The Results of Paul's Preaching (vv. 32-34).
 1. Some mocked (v. 32). Men and women are today mocking the preacher who dares to preach the coming judgment.
 2. Some procrastinated (v. 32). This is the common way of men. Many of them do not mock, but they hesitate to accept and not upon the urgency of the message.
 3. Some believed (v. 34). Wherever the gospel is preached there are some who believe and are saved.

Commonplace Lives
 The most commonplace lives have about them possibilities of romance, tragedy, and humor that discover themselves to the one who ministers to these lives with a brave and resolute heart.

Value of Prayer
 Let us value prayer more. Let us use it more as a means! We can have the music of heaven falling down and filling our lives with the sweetest of melodies, of comfort and joy, if we will.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT

Estate of John M. Stormont, deceased. Notice is hereby given that Ada B. Stormont has been duly appointed as administrator of the estate of John M. Stormont, deceased, late of Cedarville Township, Greene County, Ohio. Dated this 7th day of October, 1933.

S. C. WRIGHT,
 Judge of the Probate Court, Greene County, Ohio.

A uniform price of nine cents a quart has been set by the Ohio Milk Commission for the Springfield area and no retail sale can be made for less without a violation of the law. The price paid the farmer by distributors has been raised from $1.15 to $1.55 per hundred weight. The price the consumer pays is nearly twice what the farmer receives. It looks like every move made in the matter of price control leaves the way open for bootlegging in not only food products but various other commodities.

Well, well! What can we expect next? What would that Old Guard Marcus A. Hanna, staunch supporter of William McKinley in the days of old standard campaigns, say if he knew that the Cleveland News-Republican, owned by the Hanna family had come out for currency inflation, to be distributed by financial institutions in distress or in liquidation. Both McKinley and the elder Hanna passed from their labors long ago little dreaming that we should ever hear such an utterance from a Republican organ. The answer might be that Cleveland has two closed banks with more than one hundred million dollars tied up probably for months to come.

Gov. White expects to call the legislature in session in December, probably sooner to consider regulatory laws to control and tax hard liquor. No legislature in the past fifty years has been called in extra session as often as has the present one. It is one of the times members are none too joyous and could not consider any too great an honor in view of the fact that living in Columbus soon eats up the yearly salary. The coming session may last several weeks. In some quarters a demand is being made that the state at least pay members part of their expenses. Thirteen vacancies now exist in the house due to resignations and death. Most of the resignations are from the Democratic side where members have taken appointive positions. One Republican died, and one resigned to become an assistant attorney general.

The puzzle confronting the next legislature is what kind of a liquor law to enact and the tax to be placed on it. The wets promised the saloons would not be returned, but there is a division on that point. Some want state operated liquor stores, others hotels and restaurants only. New York has already provided for the return of hard liquor but Morgan states that his only connection was in addressing a meeting of the service stations in the future. What part the dry leaders will play in forming this legislation is not known but there are many dyes that feel after the one sided vote in this state, that the liquor forces should have a free hand. The dyes have neither the majority in the legislature, nor public sentiment back of them. The wets from now on are on the defensive.

The breach between packers and hog sellers in both Chicago and Cincinnati markets seems to be widening. Saturday the government purchased 22,000 at Chicago that had remained unsold, and have been turned over to packing houses to slaughter and cure. The meat will be used in the federal relief work. Packers are buying their daily requirements largely direct from farmers picking out the best stock. For months there has been much argument over the practice and most farmers believe that the policy has done more to damage the hog market, kill competition in market buying, than anything else. Poorer grades of hogs go direct to the open market which only lowers the market price from day to day. Many hog feeders hope the government will soon put a stop to packers buying direct.

It is hard to tell what all we are to get in the years to come following women's suffrage, which has given women activity in political affairs, more advantage in business and industry. Nine times out of ten when divorces are granted if alimony is asked, it will fall on the husband to carry the burden. Every now and then we find that courts are reversing the policy and order the wife to support the husband. Clinton county had its first case of that kind recently when Judge Frank M. Clevenger, in Common Pleas Court, ordered Luara Long to pay her husband $5 weekly alimony, and continue until final determination of the divorce action. Both are more than 74 years of age and have been married 40 years.

Did you ever stop to check up the result of the vote on repeal of the eighteenth amendment in the Seventh Congressional district? We imagine at least one congressman has looked at the figures rightside up and upside down. Running as a dry for congress, and the prohibition issue is bound to cut much figure in the next primary, the result of the election last month might plague any candidate. But three counties in a district with nine cast majorities for the dyes or against repeal. The total majorities against repeal was 1907, taken from Clinton, Union and Logan.

Six counties gave the wets for repeal a total majority of 7177. Such a comparison gives the average politician the shivers, especially when campaigning in years past for the dyes to ride into office. The counties that gave wet majorities were, Clark, Madison, Fayette and Warren.

It is an old saying that politics makes "strange bedfellows." One of the strangest is in the election of Fiorella H. La Guardia as a Republican or fusion candidate for mayor of New York City. La Guardia defeated the Democratic Tammany candidate, La Guardia formerly served in Congress and most of his service was looked upon by conservative Republicans as leaning toward the Socialists, other than being an outstanding wet. Among his New York supporters this year was Ogden Mills, formerly under secretary of the treasury in the Hoover administration, and later secretary following the resignation of Andrew Mellon. Strange things may happen in Ohio like New York City following the election of former governor Harry L. Davis, as mayor of Cleveland. Davis served but one term as governor but his comeback this year leads many Republicans to believe that he is to enter the primary next year against Sen. S. D. Fess. Davis is a wet and judging from the vote last week Sen. Fess is going to find things different if the wet and dry issue hobs up.

"The Man About Town" in The Western Star, Lebanon, had the following pertinent paragraph in his weekly column in a recent issue of the paper: After starting a policy of paying the southern farmer so much an acre for plowing under a part of his cotton crop and contracting with the northern and mid-western wheat farmer for not raising a big crop of wheat, now comes a new project to pay the farmers for not raising corn and hogs. With the government spending about 500 million dollars a year to teach farmers how to raise more crops and how to do it more efficiently, now comes a new deal to pay them for not capitalizing on what has been spent to teach them. I just can't figure this thing out. First thing we know they will be offering a higher wage for loafing than they do for working.

Ernest Morgan, Yellow Springs, son of President Arthur E. Morgan, Antioch College, head of the Socialist party in Greene county, says he has received an anonymous letter with implied threats of violence by Xenia shoe workers and has turned same over to the government for investigation. It has been intimated in many quarters that the recent strike stores, others hotels and restaurants only. New York has already provided for the return of hard liquor but Morgan states that his only connection was in addressing a meeting of the union workers while the strike was in progress. The Krippendorff-Dittmann Co. recently moved its Xenia plant to Cincinnati, leaving the factory building in Xenia empty and several hundred employees idle. There is much better feeling in Xenia over the strike situation which is believed to be the real reason the company left the city. Losing an industry where so many were employed, especially during depressed business conditions, was a hard blow to all kinds of business in Xenia and the county.

Uncle Sam has finally performed a sensible and no doubt the legal thing in granting the contract to Ford for 1,000 trucks, as the low bidder. Ford bid was held up some time owing to Ford not signing the NRA auto code, although his scale of wages is higher than required by the code. General Johnson objected but it was like water on a duck's back. A similar case arises over in Troy. The Hobart Bros. company was low bidder on 74 electric welding machines at $57,927 while nine other firms each bid the same price, $66,120. The Hobart Bros. company is operating under a code approved by the government but their nine competitors now complain that they are "price cutters," which is a violation of the code. The code evidently works well for the trusts despite what Gen. Johnson has had to say the past week in his speeches in the West. The fact nine firms bid the same price indicates they must all use the same cost system, one to milk the government. If the Troy company does not get the contract it will be another black eye for the NRA.

The sympathy of the state goes to Gov. George White and family over the loss of a son, George, 21, senior student at Princeton University, who was killed in an automobile accident Sunday. The White family the past two years has had unusual experience in motor car accidents. The Governor suffered a fractured shoulder blade when his car skidded and his two daughters were injured when hit by another car.

The result of the vote on the so-called County Home Rule amendment in the state was a surprise even to those who supported the plan. Sponsors did not expect any such vote and opponents were certain it would not get a rural vote. One thing is certain the average rural voter that cast a vote for Home Rule as planned evidently did not understand it. In the cities the wets took no chance

The Red Cross membership drive is now in progress under the direction of Mrs. Anell Wright for this township. The Hagar Strawboard & Paper Co. was one of the first to report a 100 per cent membership among the sixty employees.

For the year 1932 the membership in town and township contributed $110 and the Red Cross expended for food and clothing $1,505.64 in the same territory which was convincing we should have ready and liberal response this year, many more members than last.

Cotton yardage was supplied to the amount of $21.44, this being used to make various garments. There were 10 complete layettes amounting to $35.00. Government flour to the amount of 1330 sacks, valued at $44.30 were distributed.

MARX BROS. COMING TO REGENT, SPRINGFIELD

With a burst of laughter, rib-tickling mirth and spontaneous humor, the four Marx brothers will move into the Regent theater, Springfield, on Friday (November 17) for a week's program of nonsense in their latest screaming comedy, "Duck Soup."

The showing of this film at the Regent will mark its Ohio premiere and the picture has been booked to run a week.

In "Duck Soup" the four brothers become involved in the affairs of a mythical nation and in love affairs that do not seem so mythical.

They romp through "Duck Soup" with all of their vigorous humor and horse-play and are said to have convinced those who have seen it of the fact that they are past masters in the art of comedy.

The film offers the famous four-some unbridled leeway to strut their stuff and hokum runs riot as Harpo runs after Hollywood's prettiest girls. Groucho turns ingenue and upsets all the laws of sanity as he rolls off one wise crack after the other.

Remember! "Duck Soup" will play at the Regent theater for a week starting Friday.

Temperance Notes

Sponsored by Cedarville W. C. T. U.

Regular monthly meeting of W. C. T. U. will be held at the home of Mrs. R. R. Jamieson, Friday, November 17, at 2 o'clock. A good attendance is desired.

Some one has well said: "It is impossible to balance the budget with a corkscrew."

The Masonic lodges in several of the states have put the ban on the sale of beer. Nebraskans of the Mason fraternity have been warned by edict issued by Grand Master Archie M. Smith that any Mason selling beer may be ousted.

Senator W. H. Dieterich (wet) of Illinois in a recent address before the convention of the Master Brewers' Association, warned the brewers against the return of lawless tactics of the liquor traffic. He said:

"If the states again prohibit this industry by constitutional amendment, it is my solemn belief that an administration will be found with courage enough to give prohibition effect by proper legislation and be honest enough to enforce such legislation."

Awake, Church of God!
Awake, Christian Soldiers!
Awake, Christian Citizens!
Awake, Civic and Service Clubs!
Awake, Parents and Teachers!

and
Fight the Liquor Traffic,
Greatest Enemy of the Home.

The plea of Herbert Hoover to put the criminal in jail and break up the alliance between crooked politics and the gangsters was laughed at four years ago. Today the nation is wishing it had taken up the crime problem sooner.

No problem is to be solved by the restoration of the legal liquor traffic. More problems than ever will be presented. Politicians in the cities are already in the saloon business; what will happen, then, when the apathetic public tries to regulate the liquor business? The American citizen will find the business already regulated by the liquor dealers themselves.

"You can't repeal the effects of alcohol," Dr. James B. Doran.

Two-seventy-five per cent alcoholic contents by weight is almost exactly the same as 3.45 per cent by volume.

"Laws are the ideals which a people set up for themselves and to which they strive to attain," James A. Crain.

Prohibition drove the outlawed liquor traffic from Main street to the back alley.

"Moderate drinking causes moderate drunkenness," Dr. C. W. Saleeby.

To be neutral is to be willing to let the liquor business alone. That is exactly what it wants and all that it wants. It is as good for the liquor business as partisan support. In effect, therefore, all who are not against the liquor business are for it. All that it asks of you, personally, is that you be indifferent enough to let it carry on its business as it likes.

If you, personally, are willing that it should, you are, personally, its ally. The wets have been telling us what a large amount of revenue beer would produce and what good jobs would be given to thousands of men. Now we are disappointed to have the Brewery Age say: "The continued harping on the amount of revenue derived from beer . . . does not create goodwill. Contrarily, it instills into the minds of the public the thought that the brewers are getting away with fortunes while a great part of the workers cannot even make a living."

Will We?—We Will
By Chas. L. McCollum, Marietta
In the days of the depression, in this our beloved nation

We thought to find consolation When driven to desperation By blaming all on prohibition. Now, in foaming beer's restoration Will we realize the devastation And the utter demoralization?

That comes from free participation, And cry, "Give us again prohibition?"

and urged the mob element to vote yes on all amendments and this helped carry the Home Rule. One local woman voter tells us she did not understand it but thought by voting yes Greene county could keep out the saloons. City politicians that opposed the ten mill limitation do not feel good towards the wets for their vote "yes" campaign. Home Rule means in the last analysis fewer elected officials and more appointed officials with more power invested in boards in Columbus. One feature of the campaign was when a leading department store in Dayton sent out a printed appeal to oppose the ten mill limit, the slip being included with the usual monthly statement to customers.

The defeat of Judge Dawson Smith, municipal judge in Xenia last week, brought great joy in a certain section of Eastern Greene county. Last year farmers were losing their pigs and lambs and after investigation found the trouble was with foxes. The den was located and the foxes were captured. At the next was the evidence of the loss of pigs and lambs. Snoopers reported the case to the Game Warden and a warrant was issued which brought about arrest and a fine. The judge would take no explanation at the time but the farmers are now "delighted" in pointing out that no sorrow in this section exists over his defeat.

GOOD NEWS—HUNTERS
George Ensign reported yesterday that he was within twenty-five feet of a good sized deer in the Wallace Rife woods which adjoins the Kyle farm which Mr. Ensign farms. Mr. Ensign says the deer stood for several minutes looking over the fence where he was loading fodder.

"Hey, Slim,
Call me up—we've got a phone again"

OH Boy! Is he glad that phone's back! Now he's ready to call another young scientist or architect on some important question of electrical research—or shack building.

When a big job of drying dishes for mother makes it necessary to postpone an engagement with a pal, he does it by phone. If he's forgotten a lesson assignment, he can call a schoolmate and find out about it.

This young man is just as serious about his present affairs as he will be about business later on. That phone is a big help to him as it will be to you. Why not order yours back in?

The Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

There must be a reason—

—why Electricity on the Farm is popular

The most recent figures show that nearly 1,000,000 farms in the United States now use Electricity for a good many important jobs that used to be considered drudgery for the farmer, his wife, his children, and his farm.

In more recent years there has been a steady trend toward rural electrification. This has come about through several reasons—a lower cost of current to users—larger appreciation of electric current for farm jobs.

As time goes on there is a growing understanding between our company and its customers. And that is exactly the situation we desire above all other things. We hope to help our customers with their electric problems and we offer at all times to co-operate to the fullest extent in assisting where we can and how ever we can where a customer desires a helping hand. Only in this way can we maintain a cordial relationship and render the greatest possible service to users of electricity.

A great majority of the homes in America are electric lighted. This applies to farmhouses as well as to urban residences. We have helped to make possible an entirely new social order in the home and in the community. Miles of wires traverse our territory, supplying electric service often to isolated sections. This makes possible close contact with the whole world by radio and otherwise. This, we think you will agree, is a real service.

The cleavage between city man and farmer has ended through the coming of electricity. There is no convenience in urban centers that the rural family cannot enjoy. Isolation no longer exists in the territory we serve, since our service links town and country today.

Municipal plants could not afford, and are not intended to supply, such imperative needs to the farm. These plants actually lay a heavy burden on the rural population.

The slides are among the most beautiful in the world and Mr. Smith presents them his most inimitable way.

Walter Chan-Tong Chu, who was a student a number of years ago in Cedarville College and graduated in 1920 from Cedarville College with the degree of Bachelor of Arts, has been making commendable progress since he left Cedarville College. He graduated in 1922 with the degree of Bachelor of Arts from O. S. U., in 1925 with the degree of Master of Arts from Columbia University, in 1930 with the degree of Doctor of Jurisprudence from Soochow University, and in 1932 with the degree of Dr. of Laws from Hangchow Christian college. He is now an attorney at law in Changhai. When Dr. Chu came to Cedarville College he could scarcely speak a word of English. The progress he made shows what one who has persistence, ambition, industry and economy (for he was poor) can do by employing his time profitably.

Armistice Day was the theme of the Y. M. C. A. program Wednesday morning, November 15. Trout and Truice gave short talks on the observance of the day-fifty years ago and this year, and Linton read the poem "In Flanders Field." Burkert was in charge of the singing.

ELEVATORS EARN

A SMALL PROFIT

Three out of five of the farmer-owned elevators in Ohio earned a small profit this past year, according to an analysis of the books of 146 companies.

B. A. Wallace, specialist in grain marketing for the Ohio State University, studied the records of two-thirds of the farmer-owned elevators that operate in the state.

Losses of those which failed to earn a profit were, in most cases, small. According to many of the managers and directors of the companies it is the aim, "in times like these, to give to the farmer every penny we can in prices, and if we break even it is all that we ask."

Of the 146 companies which submitted records for the year, 108 reported surpluses averaging $8000. Book value of the stock of the 146 companies was $132 per $100-share. The usual policy of the farmer-owned grain elevators since the 1921 price collapse, according to Wallace, has been to pay the debts incurred then. Notes payable were reduced from a total of $1,020,000 to $420,000 by the 80 companies for which figures were made available to Wallace for the years 1924-25 and 1932-33. Thirty-three companies wiped out their total indebtedness.

A few companies have built up their surpluses to the point that shares of their stock are worth from $300 to $400 a share.
